The "Pint Law."

The repeal of the Pint Law took effect on the date of approval of the Act—February 23d; and the Attorney-General has given it as his opinion, that it is unlawful, after that date, to retail liquor by the pint, license or no license.—Jackson Clarion.

How to save.

All hard workers are subject to bilious attacks which may end in dangerous illness. Parker's Ginger Tonic will keep the kidneys and liver active, and by preventing the attack save much sickness, loss of time and expense. Delay at such times means danger.—Detroit Press. See other column.

The Memphis Avalanche says: The greenbackers and independents vote with the republicans in the house election contests, and hence Chalmers, Wheeler & Co. must go.

The public are indebted to Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., not only for their standard medicinal preparations, but also for improving the looks of the community by their incomparable Hair Vigor.

THE PINT LAW.

We will state for the information of all interested, that the pint law has been repealed, and, according to the charge given the Grand Jury by Judge Arnold at the last session of Circuit Court, it is an indictable offense to sell liquors of any kind under the old law since its repeal, license or no license. No provision was made for those who hold license, but the whole thing was swept out of existence. It may seem hard to deprive a man of his privileges after he has paid for them, but it seems that the State does not regard the liquor license a contract and hence in an urgent case, for the public good, can annul such agreement.—Leader.

The Distinguishing Charm.

A delightful fragrance of freshly gathered flowers and spices is the distinguishing charm of Floreston Cologne.

The Mississippi river improvement bill appropriating $8,000,000 passed the senate without opposition. All amendments to increase the appropriations and apply part of the money to build levees were withdrawn.—Memphis Avalanche.

Hon. F. S. White, of West Point, has announced himself as a candidate for congress from the Third District subject to the action of the Democratic Convention. We like his way of doing. If a man's ambition leads him Congressward, let him come out and say so, after the manner of Mr. White, and as promptly as possible. There is no use of beating about the bush when an office you want is to be played for—none whatever. If you want an office take the trouble to tell your friends you do, and badly, too, and would be pleased to have their influence in getting it. This is what we advise.—Jackson City Herald.

Take-it-Easy and Live-Long are brothers, and are related to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has lengthened many a life.

A MESSAGE FROM THE DEAD.

A singular discovery was made in Paris one day last week, during the alterations which are now being carried out at the general post office. In a panel near one of the boxes was found a letter which had been posted exactly 50 years ago, and which by some mischance had got stuck in the panel, instead of finding its way into the box. The letter was duly forwarded to the lady to whom it was addressed, who still more strangely was alive, and who received it safely. The writer, however, had been dead many years.—[London Times.

Two and seventy years ago, When Farmer George was King, And all his land a rare show With blossom of the spring— The time when lovers courting go, And little birds do sing.

They say that folks are wiser now, And life has grown completer. The old days were as sweet, I trow, Perchance a little sweeter. The birds upon the cherry bough, Have never changed their meter.

As eager were the hopes of men, Their joys, alas! as fleeting, And lovers' vows as potent then, To set girls hearts a-beating. As tender was the spring-time, when The new-born lambs were bleating.

Summer things, thank God, are lingering yet, And never out of fashion; The laws of stately etiquette Have spared the tender passion, And sometimes human eyes are wet With tears of self-compassion.

So, down Time's vista, faint and far, Two lovers we descry; Apart they stand, some sudden jar Disturbs their harmony; A cloud hath passed o'er Love's sweet star, And darkened all the sky.

The youth he watched his true love's face With angry, scornful glance; "Adieu," he cried, disdainful Grace, I sail to-night for France, Some happier man may have my place, And please you more, perchance.

"Adieu, sir," said the haughty maid, "Your fancy chimes with mine; I pray that when the anchor's weighed The weather may be fine; Too long, methinks, you have delayed To taste the dawn of time."

And so they part, these silly souls, Whom fate has joined and sore, And Time's vast ocean moaning rolls Betwixt them evermore, And they must starve on niggard doles, Who feasted heretofore.

Awhile she said: "He loves me well, I'll die but never doubt him, To-morrow he will break the spell; He knows I could not flout him." Then blank, eternal silence fell, She sighed—and lived without him.

The days passed slowly into years, The bloom of youth departed; No eye beheld her secret tears, Or saw the wound that smoldered; Hers was the patient love that cheers The sad and broken hearted.

When fifty years had passed away, Life's pains no more beset her, This woman, faded, old and gray, Waits for the life that's better; Her maid trips in with silver tray: "Madam, a foreign letter!"

She took it with a wondering smile, Into her wrinkled hand, She gazed at it a little while, She could not understand.

'Twas folded in an ancient style, The ink was pale and tanned, What ghost arises from the past To scare the faithful brand?

A dead man's message came at last, Best of all messages, "Dear God!" she cried, while tears fell fast, "I'm ready for my rest."

Write but a word, ere late be sped, Whether you will or no; And then the date the woman read, 'Twas fifty years ago.

MEMPHIS AND SELMA ROAD.

The Work to Begin at Once and Not to Stop at Holly Springs.

Yesterday an APPEAL reporter called on Messrs. Busby & Toof to ascertain any additional points they might have concerning the Memphis, Selma and Brunswick road. Major Busby said it was a mistake to suppose that the road would be built only to Holly Springs. It would be built as rapidly as possible to that point, and an engineer corps will begin at Holly Springs and extend to Pontotoc.

The route between here and Holly Springs, except two miles, is graded, as well as from Pontotoc to Okolona. Major Busby said instead of advertising the full thirty days they would advertise only twenty, so as to put everything in order as soon as possible. By the 1st of October the work will be done. The arrangements are nearly all made, and Mr. Wolfe has a lot of iron at Chattanooga. Mr. Busby says there is no trouble about the money, and that Mr. Wolfe is in earnest.

Mr. Toof said the interview of the day before with him was calculated to be wrongly construed. He did not say that the road would be built only to Holly Springs, but that this section would be immediately built. The advertisement for bids is in course of preparation, and will be published in a few days.—Memphis Appeal, 30th.

A few nights since a Smith county man took home a barrel of flour and a barrel of fertilizer. Through mistake biscuits for supper, were made of the latter and by the next morning the man and his wife had grown so large they hardly knew themselves, while their children, almost grown to be men and women.—Ship Island Beacon.

The Crop of 1882 in Mississippi.

Natchez Democrat.] Maj. E. G. Wall, commissioner of immigration for the State of Mississippi, in a letter to the Atlanta Constitution, relative to the crops of our State, says "about ten per cent more corn will be planted than last year and the planters are at least four weeks later with their work. Oat crop, seeded last fall, about ten per cent greater than last year; very little work done in preparation for the cotton crop on account of continued rains. In the hill country, five-sixths of the State, about the same crop will be planted as last year. The overflowed district between the Yazoo, river and the Mississippi and tributaries embracing 200,000 acres, usually planted in cotton, I suppose will fall short this year about twenty per cent. This section in 1879 made 213,785 bales of cotton."

The one-cent piece has never been so popular as in the South, anything costing so small an amount being considered not worth selling. The five-cent piece has heretofore been the lowest denomination any Southerner would consent to handle. But very recently there has been a departure, and large demands are now made on the mint at Philadelphia for pennies to be used in South. To this complexion we have come at last.—Vicksburg Commercial.

NEW YORK'S

GAS LIT LIFE ILLUSTRATED.

The above is the title of a series of sketches of the shady side of life and character in the Great Metropolis, now being fully illustrated from authentic sketches in the YOUNG MAN'S GAZETTE.

NATIONAL POLICE GAZETTE of New York, which are realistic and faithful portraits from real life. The illustrations are by the best artist talent attainable, and the descriptions are from the pen of the most gifted journalist and brilliant writer in America, who, it is conceded, has rivaled that master hand of word painting—Charles Dickens. It is sufficient to say that "New York's Gaslit Life" will present the most striking, vivid and truthful pictures of the under current of life in New York City that have ever been presented to the public.—The National Police Gazette of New York, for sale by all newsdealers, price 10 cents per copy, or it can be ordered direct from the publisher.

Subscription price, $4.00 per year. The National Police Gazette, of New York, has no connection with any other publication of its class, who for gain, as far as possible copy its title and appearance.

CAUTION.—The public are cautioned against buying weak imitations of the National Police Gazette. In all cases see that the paper is dated from New York, and has the publisher's name printed on each copy.

Remittances should be made by post office order, draft on New York, or by registered letter, to RICHARD K. FOX, Publisher, Cor. Spruce and William Sts. New York City.

FARMERS LOOK HERE!

MAKE YOUR OWN GUANO.

Shun these guano dealers and manufacture your own fertilizers. Most of the material is on your own farm after a day to be had at the balance of a season.

One receipt for quickly manufacturing guano, far better than the guano stuff sold by unscrupulous dealers, will be mailed to you on receipt of ONE DOLLAR.

The directions are simple, so that of apparatus needed besides what a farmer already has, and the cost does not exceed THREE DOLLARS per ton.

Three hundred pounds put on an acre will make a better crop than any guano you can buy. Send your order one dollar and mail, accompanied with a post-office plainly written to R. J. EDENTFIELD, Swanton, Vt.

Feb. 21, 1882, and send no more.
